FRIDAY EVENING, OCT. 22, 1880.

That Poor Parade.

The use of parades to parties is to show their numbers and animation, to encourage their followers and intimidate their opponents. Therefore it is essential to the party having them to take care that they shall be as large and enthusiastic as possible, for if they disappoint public expectation they do great harm instead of good.

Around the speaking stands but a few hundred assembled; and the torchlight procession in the evening was but half the size of the previous demonstration of the same kind by the party and was about as quiet as a funeral procession.

These were the impressions the great Republican demonstration made on us, and if we observed it rightly a significant deduction is warranted. It just as surely presages a Republican defeat, if the feeling here is a test of the general feeling, as though the handwriting was read upon the wall.

Rightly Done.

A dispatch from Richmond says that the Democratic national committee has recognized the regular Democratic ticket in Virginia as the one which Democrats desiring the success of the Democratic ticket should vote for.

PERSONAL.

WALT WHITMAN will shortly give in one of the London magazines his estimate of the leading English poets of the nineteenth century.

Mr. ROBERT E. BONNER, son of Mr. Robert Bonner, of the Ledger, was married in St. Bartholomew's church, New York, yesterday, to Miss Griffith, daughter of Mr. Edward Griffith.

Mr. THOMAS HUGHES, M. P., arrived in Philadelphia yesterday, and is the guest of Mr. George W. Childs. He lectured last evening at the Academy of Music on "The Crookedest Stick in all the Pile-Ouses."

At the funeral of OFFENBACH the Church of the Madeleine was filled to overflowing, and crowds thronged the neighboring streets. Selections from his last work "Contes d'Hoffman," which he did not live to see produced, were sung.

Miss CLARA LOUISE KELLGROG brings away from Vienna a souvenir of the pleasant impression she made upon the audiences of the Grand opera. An unknown admirer sent to her hotel, anonymously, a bird of beautiful plumage in a cage of gold.

A QUEER CASE.

A Man Chokes His Sister-in-law to Death. Last night George A. Wheeler went to the police station, San Francisco, and confessed that he had murdered his sister-in-law, Della J. Tillson, in a lodging house at No. 28 Kearney street, and packed her body in a trunk.

The innocent Jewell has been badly caught in his colonizing operations in Florida by the embarrassing return of his own despatches to the Democratic committee. Flushed with the result of similar manipulations in Indiana, Mr. Jewell hastens to repeat them in other states.

A concentration of negroes from the Southern states into a few in which their help may carry the Republican ticket is a

Very obvious suggestion to a Republican committee which is not restrained by any consideration from using the most available means for success and which has all the money it needs to conduct its operations.

Second—If it be true that these men or a part of them, are paid off in orders upon stores, whether he does not make a snug percentage off their earnings, and if so, how he can justify such skimming.

Third—How, if he be a friend to the workingman, as he professes to be, can he reconcile the fact with having his workmen bullied and intimidated, thus reducing them to the state of negro slaves. Common report makes the latter charge. If false let the great gesticulator deny it.

MINOR TOPICS.

WHERE were the "business men" last night?

CLEAR case of false pretense—the sale of huckster stands by the Republican mass meeting management.

DOX your uniforms, boys, for the parade to-morrow night.

WORKINGMEN who believe in a free ballot and no intimidation, bulldozing nor bribing of laboring men, will turn out to-morrow night.

THE gentlemen advertised to speak for the Democracy in the court house to-night are eloquent and effective campaigners. Give them a hearing.

THE iron-workers will be in line to-morrow night in their working clothes to prove that workmen understand the issues as well as "business men."

THE cigar-makers, who do not sympathize with the importation of Chinese makers by Mr. Garfield's friends will be in line to-morrow night.

THE mystery of that Republican majority in Indiana disappears like magic in the sunlight that has just fallen upon Chairman Jewell's scheme for colonizing Florida.

HON. GILBERT DE LA MATYR was buried very deeply, the official vote for congressman in his district being Peelle, Republican, 17,610; Byfield, Democrat, 16,800; De La Matyr, Greenbacker, 2,125.

SUPERINTENDENT WALKER, of the census bureau, will make a complete report of the enumeration of population to Congress at its next session. A report to Congress in the session next following the enumeration has never before been made.

THE Democratic national committee has recognized the Funderling party of the party in Virginia. Gen. Mahone says he is not surprised, but had expected it all along. The national committee's action will give great relief to the public and must tend to strengthen the regular organization in Virginia.

THE Congressional association of New York yesterday, at Poughkeepsie, adopted an address to the national council, which meets at St. Louis, suggesting such amendments to the constitution as may be necessary to transform the body into the nature of a conference of the churches, in order to remove the danger of separation and division.

HON. ORRESTE A. CLEVELAND, in addressing a Democratic meeting at Jersey City, N. J., Tuesday evening, said that if any manufacturing concern that possessed an element of success was closed after Hancock's election, he would open the establishment the next morning, and continue with a full force of laborers at their old wages. Mr. Cleveland has in his employ fully 1,000 hands, and they are being paid the same wages as during the war.

At the funeral of OFFENBACH the Church of the Madeleine was filled to overflowing, and crowds thronged the neighboring streets. Selections from his last work "Contes d'Hoffman," which he did not live to see produced, were sung.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER. FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1880.

WARREN Longmore, acquitted on the charge of murdering Freeman Wright, is now under arrest at Pembroke, Me., and is to be tried again.

Capt. E. B. Robinson, probably one of the best-known printers in the United States, died yesterday at Washington, D. C., in the 70th year of his age.

The trial of Cleophas Bailey for the murder of John Farmer on the 15th of July last, was commenced in the hustings court at Petersburg, Va., yesterday.

J. H. Estabrook's lively stable at Denver, Col., together with sixty head of horses and other contents, was burned yesterday. Loss $65,000.

The convention of the Baptists met in annual session at Knoxville, yesterday, with a large number of ministers present from all parts of the state.

General Denet, chief of ordinance, U. S. A., will recommend to the secretary of war in his annual report, the organization and equipment of a national militia.

The examination of the accounts of J. C. O'Brien, the defaulting city collector of Boston, shows that an additional amount of $6,000 has been embezzled, making an aggregate of $88,000.

One William Sheridan has been arrested at New York and held for further developments, as he answers the description given by several confidential informants who recently drugged and robbed an Englishman of $5,000, besides valuable papers.

On Wednesday Justice Cross, in the court of Queen's Bench, ordered the liberation of Zinck, alias Brooks, the Columbus (Ohio) forger, on the ground that he is a fugitive from justice to warrant extradition to the United States and defects in the warrant of commitment.

Dudley Porter, of Tennessee, charged with accidentally shooting Mr. Doty at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and who is on bail to await the action of the grand jury, was arrested on Wednesday for another assault on William Ostrom, and put under bond to await the action of the grand jury on the second charge.

Isaac Clements, 70 years old, a respected citizen of Wareham, Mass., was assaulted by a burglar, who made his escape, and the old man received such a severe wound in the temple from a coal oil lamp thrown at him that doubts are entertained of his recovery. A young man who attempted a year ago to murder Mr. Clements is suspected as the guilty party.

The Carriage Builders' association, in session at Chicago, yesterday adopted resolutions for the establishment of a school of technology at New York, especially devoted to the art of carriage building.

The trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, have expressed a willingness to add a branch to the museum devoted to that object if a fund of $1,000 per year for three years were guaranteed.

The annual subscription footed up $1,100. On Wednesday night a large body of men entered the house of Mrs. Underhill, and demanded that the occupants should leave town. They refused, and some person in the house fired two shots into the crowd, killing Rodney Lord, aged 25 years, in stantly, and severely wounding two others.

More Than 23,000 Men Marching. "Little Mac's" Rousing Reception in His Native City.

The Democrats of Philadelphia made their last great marching effort of the campaign last night, and it was the greatest effort of the kind ever made by the party in that city. The demonstration had two great features that were to a certain extent distinct.

One was the parade of over twenty-three thousand uniformed and torch-bearing men on Broad street, and the other was a reception of General George B. McClellan by the Hancock Veterans, connected with a monster meeting which first filled Horticultural hall and then Broad street in front of that building.

"Little Mac" himself presided at the meeting in Horticultural hall, and on previous occasions of the kind given him unmistakable evidence of popular favor, but last night's welcome exceeded them all. The connecting link between the parade and the great meeting was the speech of the general, repeated in the Legislature and was a conspicuous orator in that party, is out for Hancock, and is making telling speeches for the general in the West.

Mr. A. D. Smith, a Republican lawyer of Philadelphia, and a prominent speaker at Hancock meetings.

A Brakeman's Deadly Grudge. Moses Kane, a brakeman on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad, now in jail at Meadville, is charged with deliberate murder in having caused a collision between trains by which two lives were sacrificed.

Another Man Who Isn't Afloat. The Carlisle Valley Sentinel publishes an endorsement of the letter of Colonel McCormick's farming, on the tariff, by Carey W. Ahl, the largest iron manufacturer in Cumberland valley. Mr. Ahl earnestly advocates the election of General Hancock.

STATISTICS. An unknown colored man jumped into the Monongahela river, near Pittsburgh, on Wednesday night, and was drowned.

Tom Whitaker, of Pittsburgh, the editor of the Galling Gun, a disreputable paper, has been sent to jail for eight years for publishing a libelous article.

Coroner's Inquest. This morning Coroner Mischler empanelled a jury and held an inquest on the remains of Isaac Ritter, the little boy who was injured at Kinzers station by the cars on Tuesday last.

Another Epizootic Kennedy. The following recipe of a mixture for the cure of the epizootic is endorsed by good authority. Take one pound of gum assafetida, mix it with one gallon of boiling water; stir the mixture constantly until the assafetida is dissolved.

Five Thousand of Them Attend the Meeting in Wall Street, New York. Five thousand persons attended the Democratic meeting of business men in Wall street yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Samuel Calvin declines to be the Greenback-Labor nominee for supreme judge, vice F. P. Dewees, resigned. He was not nominated, as heretofore reported. The position was tendered by the state Greenback committee.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER. FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1880.

THE Medical society of Virginia adjourned yesterday to meet in Winchester next year. The receipts from internal revenue yesterday were $414,399.15, and from customs, $255,464.42.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER. FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1880.

THE Democratic national committee has issued the following: To the PEOPLE: When this campaign opened the national Democratic committee contracted with the American Union and the Western Union telegraph companies for special rates for their business and arranged with said companies that all telegrams sent or received by the committee should be returned at the end of each week to the cashier of the committee, as vouchers for the bills rendered.

Telegrams so sent or received by our committee have been returned under this agreement week after week according to the contract. On Wednesday morning, October 20, the Western Union telegraph company returned to the committee vouchers as usual for the second week in October.

Upon these being examined by our cashier to verify the amount the following telegrams were found in the package so sent us as vouchers, evidently being a mistake on the part of the official having the same in charge at the office of the Western Union telegraph company.

The telegrams were written upon Western Union blanks and are as follows: RUSH, Oct. 21, 1880. To Hon. Chas. J. Noyes, care J. Jenkins, jr., Jacksonville, Fla.

I telegraphed yesterday, I will provide, as requested, which for Callender and yourself as compensation. (17 paid.) [Signature.] MARSHALL JEWELL.

RUSH, Oct. 12, 1880. F. W. Wicker, Collector Key West, Fla.: "City of Dallas" took 150; "City of Texas," 100; "Colorado," 100 for Key West. Men on dock instructed to say nothing about it. (36 paid.) [Signature.] MARSHALL JEWELL.

In this last telegram mean so many men. These telegrams, or rather the one addressed to F. W. Wicker, United States collector at the port of Key West, Fla., tells its own story. The sum had not gone down in the state of Indiana, where one of the greatest frauds ever perpetrated on a free government and a free ballot was about to be consummated, when the chairman of the national Republican committee and an official of the United States government were preparing to leave for the state of Florida the infamy then about to be consummated in Indiana.

The committee were advised previous to the receipt of these telegrams that the state of Florida was about to be overrun by the repeaters of our large cities. The telegrams of Mr. Jewell only confirm what the committee well knew to be the fact. The above telegrams are in the possession of the committee. They are written in copying ink, have been copied in a letter-press book, and bear the clearest handwriting, checks and marks, and this committee defies any one to assert that they are not genuine. The telegrams are now being lithographed and will be given to the public in a day or two. W. H. BARNUM, Chairman National Democratic Committee.

NEW YORK, October 21, 1880. In Connecticut. The Normal Home, an independent Republican paper, which has considerable influence in Fairfield county, comes out for Hancock. It says Garfield's own explanation of the DeGolyer $5,000 bribe business is against him. The editor had written before the meeting, in hopes that some better explanation than General Hawley's or any other than has yet been attempted, would be made for Garfield; but he found all the attempted explanations, about the $5,000 being "a bribe," and the fact that Garfield had been a member of the committee, and that the latter, in trying to explain his conduct, had by his own explanation condemned himself.

The Normal Home needs no "certificates of character," but that Garfield has as many as a quack medicine, or a too often discharged servant girl.

Mr. Edward Butler, until recently the editor of the New Haven Palladium, a well known Republican daily paper, is out for Hancock, and addressed a Hancock meeting at Wallingford Saturday night.

General E. M. Lee, now of Wyoming, but who was a well known Republican leader in Connecticut a few years ago, who has been elected to the Legislature and in the Legislature and was a conspicuous orator in that party, is out for Hancock, and is making telling speeches for the general in the West.

Mr. A. D. Smith, a Republican lawyer of Philadelphia, and a prominent speaker at Hancock meetings.

A Brakeman's Deadly Grudge. Moses Kane, a brakeman on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad, now in jail at Meadville, is charged with deliberate murder in having caused a collision between trains by which two lives were sacrificed.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER. FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1880.

THE Republicans have had their parade and attempts at meetings, and have done their best. Now it rests with the Democracy of the city to show what they can do in the same line, with their local resources. Although the opposition boasted that they would have many thousands in line they failed to come. Their parade last night was a failure. The Democracy will make theirs of Saturday night a success. It is for every man to show himself in line that night who can carry a torch. Those without equipments should apply to their ward captains at once and they may be supplied. Men who have uniforms and cannot turn out should loan them to those who can.

To-night there will be a Democratic mass meeting in the court house. The speakers who will be here are Ezra D. Parker, of Milltown, a leading lawyer of central Pennsylvania, and one of the most effective stump speakers in the state. Edgar K. Appgar, esq., of New York, who will also speak to-night, is one of the brightest young men and ablest campaigners of the Empire state. Chas. A. Lagen, esq., of Philadelphia, son of our former townsman, Daniel A. Lagen, will be the other speaker. He is a rising member of the Philadelphia bar.

The meeting will begin at 7:45 p. m.

AT KIRKWOOD.

A Fine Meeting Yesterday. The Democratic meeting at Kirkwood yesterday was held in an open field near the village, and the concourse of people was unexpectedly large even for the centre Democratic Colerain. Delegations came with music and flags, banners and portraits of the candidates from all the surrounding neighborhoods.

The lower end of Lancaster county and adjoining parts of Chester turned out local Democrats en masse, and when the meeting was organized there were not less than 1,300 persons present. James G. McSparran, esq., president, and a meeting addressed by George W. Barton, of Philadelphia, and B. F. Davis, esq., of this city. The best of order prevailed during the day, the liveliest party spirit was manifested, and from all the signs of the occasion Colerain and her neighbors may be expected to do their full Democratic duty on November 2.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

Friday Morning.—Commonwealth vs. John L. Detwiler, malicious mischief. The prosecutor in this case is John L. Detwiler, brother of the defendant. He claimed that the latter tore down a shanty which he had erected on his fish battery, in the Susquehanna river, near Turkey Hill. The Commonwealth proved that the defendant purchased the land on which this battery was erected, on June 11, 1879, for $400, from Samuel Sprengle. He paid $100 in cash and gave Mr. Sprengle a note for $300 for the balance, which was for twelve months. They showed that he received a deed and built a cabin on the battery. After a short time this battery was torn down by some one. In July, 1879, Sprengle met the prosecutor and tendered him back the note, but the latter refused to receive it. Since that the prosecutor offered to give Sprengle the value of the note but he refused to take it. On the 7th of last May the defendant, with several others, went on the island and tore down the cabin, the lumber of which was taken to a rock in the river. On account of this tearing down of the shanty the suit is brought.

It was shown by Samuel Sprengle of Windsor township, York county, that he sold this island to the prosecutor and gave him possession of it and received for it $100 in cash and a $300 note. The understanding that the deed should be given until security on the note should be obtained; a week after the sale the prosecutor rescinded the contract and the witness paid him back $100 and they agreed that they should not call a sale. On June 30 witness sold the same island to John L. Detwiler and Wm. P. Mundis for $500, deeding it to them and giving them possession of it, they then tore away the cabin which had been erected on the island.

Mr. Sprengle was corroborated by the defendant and Mr. Mundis, as to the latter part of his evidence; they were subjected to great annoyance by the prosecutor who put up a cabin and claimed a right to fish on the island. On the 7th of last May they removed the shanty and placed it on a rock a short distance from the battery.

The prosecutor denied that he had rescinded the contract, that he had received any of the money back that he had paid for that he had given up possession of the island to Sprengle.

The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, with the prosecutor and defendant each to pay half the costs.

Commonwealth vs. Mary Bookmyer and Ida Wise, forcible entry. Mrs. Bookmyer was May last lived in a house belonging to John Scherr. She refused to pay any rent and Mr. Scherr desired to dispossess her. He obtained a writ of possession from Alderman Wiley which was executed by Constable Samuel Bowman. The officer, with several others went to the house on May 10, and removed all the furniture and household goods belonging to the defendant to the outside of the house which was then locked up. The defendant was not at home when the officer came, but her niece, Mrs. Wise, interfered with Scherr. When Mrs. Bookmyer came home she found the house locked and she broke open a shutter of the house. In this way she effected her entrance, and the other defendant carried all the goods back into the house. They had new locks put on the doors and shutters and are now living in the house.

The defence says that when Mrs. Bookmyer came home she saw that her furniture was not all outside of the house. She went in to bring the remainder out; she merely pushed the front door open, but did not break or force the shutters or the door.

After the evidence was in it was agreed by counsel to take a verdict of not guilty as there was no force or violence used in returning the goods to the house, and they had not been moved by the constable.

The cases of Commonwealth vs. Moses Walling, William P. Mundis, Jacob Dellinger and Henry Long, which grew out of the Detwiler case, were not pressed.

There were no more cases for jury trials and the jurors were discharged.

Felonious Assault.

Miss Kate Bender appeared before Alderman Spurrier yesterday and made complaint against Jacob McDonnell of felonious assault and battery. She alleges that he met her in the crowd in Centre Square yesterday and stabbed her in the breast with a knife, inflicting a slight wound. McDonnell was arrested and entered bail for a hearing before Alderman Spurrier to-morrow evening.

Fall From a Train.

John Ritter, of East Donegal, falling from the Erie train, near Millersburg, was killed by the fall. He was on the train from this city, at Mr. Joy last night. He received several very ugly cuts. He claims he was struck by a stone and knocked from the car platform. The train was running slow or the man would have been killed.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER. FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1880.

A Tame Affair.—The Mass Meeting and Torchlight Parade of Friday Previous. Country Politicians. The great Republican convention, "the old-fashioned county convention" of the Republican managers were pleased to see it, has come and gone, and there is but one opinion expressed in regard to it by all honest men whether Republicans or Democrats, and that is, as compared with former demonstrations of either party it was a decided failure, not only by reason of the comparatively few men in line in both day and night parades, but also on account of the lack of enthusiasm among the men, and very poor representation of the mechanical trades and manufactures, and the slim display of fireworks.

Prominent county Republicans have expressed to us not only their disappointment at the unsatisfactory appearance of the parade, but their indignation and disgust with its management. They say the affair was got up for the glorification of Frank Ebleman and Elias McMellen. As an inducement to secure a large attendance the managers promised State Senator Blaine, Governor Hoyt, and other big guns, not one of whom was in attendance, and whose places were poorly supplied by the slobbering Buckeye Blacksmith, the ranting Stockett Mathews and the illegal-grating Attorney General.

County Republicans, however, seem to believe that an immense multitude would be in attendance, and who made great preparations to entertain them, are even more disappointed and more out of pocket than their country cousins. They laid in hundreds of dollars worth of provisions, bought from the managers permission to erect lunch booths on the poorhouse grounds (where the mass meeting was held) for the sale of their stock, and owing to the slim attendance there some of the hucksters did not sell enough to pay the rent of the booth, while they have on hand large supplies of cooked food which is almost valueless. Keepers of restaurants and boarding houses down town, also losers by providing too largely; indeed the other persons who appear to have reaped any particular advantage from the convention are the hotel keepers and beer saloons. These were largely patronized, in many cases to the disadvantage of the poor.

The mass-meeting on the poorhouse grounds was a tame and spiritless affair. When it was ascertained that neither Grant, nor Blaine, nor Hoyt
